

Wayne Williams

Wayne Williams made his coaching debut in Dublin when his oldest son started playing T-Ball in 1990. In 1992, Wayne applied to be the head coach of the 9 year old travel team in Dublin and continued to coach that team through the 14 year old World Series in Dublin. Wayne either was the head coach or assistant coach on all three of his sons' travel teams from the time they started playing baseball until the year he passed away in 2002. After a couple years of coaching, Wayne became a member of the DYA board and eventually became the commissioner of travel baseball in Dublin. Wayne was an active participant in the entire travel baseball program and wanted to make Dublin travel baseball the best program in central Ohio. Wayne lost his battle to cancer in 2002 at the age of 46, although the legacy he made on the travel baseball program continues to live on. Wayne is survived by his wife Diane, his children Krista (Mike), Brandon (Allison), Brett, Brian, Ashley and granddaughter Addyson.
